

The Mentoring Network Online

Copyright

Mentoring Works is a small business and I make my livelihood from the intellectual property developed over the last twenty-five years. It is easy to misunderstand something like copyright and there are lots of different views on what information should be freely available and what you must pay for. We provide a lot of complimentary material and products to purchase. The copyright of all of this is owned by Mentoring Works.

In our members Resource Centre within the Mentoring Network Online you can access complimentary material in for your personal use. These items may be shared or reproduced but you cannot sell them, use them to make money or pass them off as your own work.

In Products For Sale you purchase either hard-copy or electronic versions. These may not be reproduced without additional payment. So you must not make multiple copies or give them to others without my permission. If you need extra copies or want to use materials for participants in your mentoring program, you can purchase a license to reproduce them or buy additional copies.

I am also happy for you to reproduce whole articles published in our newsletter, as long as you attribute my authorship, the copyright (© Mentoring Works) and list our web address www.mentoring-works.com

There are several slides you can use in your own presentations. These are models that I have developed: The Mentoring Conversation, The Mentoring Process, The Mentoring Model and A Mentor's Role. Each one already carries the copyright notice and acknowledgement and you must not alter them.

Under Australian copyright law, you can quote small sections of other people's work providing you reference it correctly. So if you see something in the material you want to quote please do, just acknowledge the source, authorship and ownership.

I am often asked for permission to use some text, model or diagram and my policy is: if you have done me the courtesy of asking, you are going to use it appropriately and it is not an unreasonable amount of my IP that you want for free, I'll generally say yes or negotiate a win-win outcome.

If in doubt, email or phone me, I'm happy to talk.

Thanks for your integrity,

Ann Rolfe
